This topographic map, titled 'Tavola 3', depicts a region in the northern Italian Alps. The central feature is the Fiume Reno, shown as a prominent blue line. To the left of the river, the village of Spazzavento is situated, with nearby locations including Ca' dei Coni, Beneda, and Ca' del Blin. The right side of the map shows the village of Quaderna, with Molino Quaderna and Rabatta also labeled. The terrain is characterized by numerous contour lines indicating elevation, with peaks such as Monte Retto and Serra di Gatto. A network of roads (STRADA) and a railway line (FERRATA) are visible. A series of red dots follows the course of the Fiume Reno, likely representing a specific data set or survey points. The map is oriented with North at the top.
